Our "Plymouth Rock"
Androsace primuloides at base

Now I shall make my garden
As true men build a shrine,
An humble thing where yet shall spring
The seeds that are divine,
Since each a prayer I sow them there
In reverential line.

O, little is my garden space,
But great the prayer I pray;
With every seed against earth's need
That men may sow today,
My hope is thrown, my faith is sown
To make the harvest gay.

THEODOSIA GARRISON.

THE GARDEN THAT IS DIFFERENT

BE it a little plot of close-packed treasure or vistas of outspread ingratiating beauty; be it of soft charm or of gorgeous splendor, our Garden brings to us that “vast measure of content” which is the benediction of our flowers. No garden effort but meets its high reward.

To us at Hildemere it is a continuing delight to add each year to our long list of little known plants, others as beautiful and rare. This year we have also increased our number of old-time favorites.

From the wealth of bloom which our Gardens furnish throughout the season, we supply decoration both unusual and inexpensive for either the formal or informal occasion. Baskets filled to order; flowers cut while you wait.

Within reasonable radius of Hildemere we deliver plants on orders of $5 and upward. We feel however that whenever practicable you will prefer to come yourselves to our Gardens where you may see the plants growing and make your personal selection.

Visitors Welcome Every Day Except Sunday

The rain to the wind said
 “You push and I’ll pelt!”
They so struck the garden bed
 That the flowers actually knelt—
And lay lodged—though not dead.
 I know how the flowers felt.
